

Sanjoy Kumar Adhikary is a Professor of Agrotechnology Discipline, Khulna University, Khulna. He graduated from Bangladesh Agricultural University, Mymensingh under the Faculty of Agriculture in 1979 and also obtained Masters in Plant Pathology from the same University in 1982. He obtained PhD degree in the year 2000 from Bangabandhu Sheikh Mujibur Rahman Agricultural University, Gazipur. He started his career as Lecturer, Patuakhali Agricultural College, Patuakhali (now Patuakhali Science and Technology University) in 1981 and transferred to Hajee Mohammad Danesh Agricultural College, Dinajpur (now Hajee Mohammad Danesh Science and Technology University). He joined in Khulna University, Khulna as a Professor in October, 2001. Adhikary was appointed as Vice Chancellor of Noakhali Science and Technology University by the Honorable Chancellor of the universities in May, 2008. After going back to Khulna University from Noakhali, in 2012, he entered into the Quality Assurance in Higher Education, a new ocean of knowledge with a Self Assessment sub-project under Higher Education Quality Enhancement Project (HEQEP) implemented by the University Grants Commission of Bangladesh. In April, 2014 he joined as Quality Assurance Specialist in University Grants Commission of Bangladesh and became Head of Quality Assurance Unit in April 2017. He received training on quality assurance in Malaysia in 2012 and visited two other ASEAN countries to observe quality assurance and accreditation activities of those countries in 2015. He received many training from in and outside the country for academic and professional development. Adhikary published 45 papers in different peer reviewed journals.